

Zero2 Wireless: Affordable Connectivity Program

The Affordable Connectivity Program (ACP) is a U.S. government program that helps many low income households pay for broadband service and internet connected devices.

The Affordable Connectivity Program is administered by USAC with oversight from the Federal Communications Commission (FCC).

What is the ACP (Affordable Connectivity Program)?

The Affordable Connectivity Program (ACP) is a U.S. government program run by the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) program to help low-income households pay for internet service and connected devices like a laptop or tablet.

You are likely eligible if your household's income is below 200% of the Federal Poverty Line, or if you or someone you live with currently receives a government benefit like SNAP, Medicaid, SSI, WIC, Pell Grant, or Free and Reduced-Price Lunch.

If your household is eligible, you could receive:

- Up to a $30/month discount on your internet service

 Through a separate non-FCC initiative, additional no cost plans may be available to Affordable Connectivity Program enrollees. To learn more please visit GetInternet.gov. Provision of a link to this initiative does not imply FCC endorsement of any particular participating provider.*

Zero2 Wireless is participating in the ACP and will provide the monthly discounts described above on certain of its broadband access plans to eligible households, but will not offer the one-time device discount on desktops, laptops or tablets as part of its ACP.

If the ACP's funds are exhausted and Congress does not appropriate any additional funds, participants will be subject to Zero2 Wireless undiscounted rates and general terms and conditions unless they later notify Zero2 Wireless of their desire to cancel the service.

Who is Eligible for the ACP?

A household is eligible if at least one member of the household meets at least one of the following criteria:
